

ABSTRACT

5 This invention describes the use of pharmaceutical compositions, which comprise three components of which at least one is a slow release therapeutic agent. Such useful compositions are applicable for the treatment of humans suffering from diabetic, hypertensive, cardiovascular, hyperlipidemic conditions and their associated disorders thereof. Combination therapy has the advantages of better patient compliance; better therapeutic efficacy coupled with a reduction in the dose for some of the individual therapeutic agent(s) in the combination.